

Our second walk in May was a tour of historic Kirkham, led by Susan and put on again by popular request. Whoever could imagine the amount of history for such a small town. Susan led us along a meandering route through Kirkham, stopping at several points to impart a host of fascinating facts. Thanks to Susan I now know for example about the former workhouse and the long history of weaving in Kirkham. She had also arranged for us to visit the Roman archeological museum in St Michael's Church, opened specially for us. Many thanks Susan not only for a most interesting morning but also for the Party Rings and Rocky Bars produced at the Kirkham factory.
